It is with great pride that the University of North Florida Foundation offers major donors a signed, limited edition, reproduction print of A Florida Landscape by Louise Freshman Brown. In A Florida Landscape the artist has created a pastel that imparts the sensation of the environment as it is perceived, not merely recognized. With her distinct active style, Louise Freshman Brown juxtaposes lush flora with the characteristic symbolism of the palm and sea to create a vibrant and colorful impression of tropical Florida.

The Artist is an Associate Professor of Painting and Drawing at UNF. Her original works are included in over fifty distinguished private, public and corporate collections including IBM, Southern Bell, American Transtech, Tupperware In-

The University of North Florida is a public university providing essential educational programs to serve student and community needs in Jacksonville and northeast Florida. The University offers a variety of four-year undergraduate degrees and graduate programs in business, education, and the liberal arts reflective of multi-dimensional and growing demands.

Because state funds and tuition dollars can only provide for basic programs and services, the University, in order to achieve its potential, must seek private sources of funds. Such funds are required for student scholarships, faculty support, equipment needs, library resources, research programs, cultural and other educational programming — in short, a whole range of offerings appropriate to a complete university experience.

The University of North Florida Foundation, Inc., a 40-member trustee board composed of distinguished area business, professional, and civic leaders, was formed in 1972 to assist the University in securing private funds for worthy projects. For the seventh year, the UNF Foundation seeks to acknowledge the unrestricted contribution by offering a creation by a talented regional artist.
